

Cohasset Mariner

vol. I, no. 37

thursday, June 21, 1979

25 cents

Cohasset Free
Public Library
Cohasset, Mass. 02025

97501
Paul Pruth Memorial Li
Attn: Richard F. Hayes
406 South Main St.
Cohasset, Ma. 02025

Belles-Boys

SCHOOL'S OUT and the beach was a welcome treat and retreat with the heat wave that followed. These young sun worshippers took quick advantage of Rocky Beach.
[Photo by Greg Derr]

Town Meeting Resumes Tuesday Night

By Judith Epstein

Cohasset's Annual Town Meeting will resume Tuesday June 26 at the High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. A quorum of 200 is needed to consider the remainder of the warrant which contains articles concerning zoning bylaw changes, aerial mapping, and acceptance of police and fire contracts. "We desperately need a quorum,"

Moderator David Place said this week. He urges that voters make a special effort to turn out for the meeting, and said that business should be easily dispatched within a few hours.

"The zoning bylaw changes except for two articles, involve technical changes and are not substantive," Place said. "The contracts have been hammered out by the Personnel Committee," he added and predicted that residents will not vote against them.

Selectman Chairman Arthur Clark reminded all voters to bring the warrants used last April to this Town Meeting. This is an extension of annual Town Meeting, Clark said, it is not a Special Town Meeting and therefore does not require a new warrant.

Articles 45 through 74 concerning zoning bylaw changes and inserted by the Planning Board and Building Inspector James Litchfield will take up the bulk of the people's consideration. Planning Board Chairman Patricia Facey said that Article 72 concerning buffer zones along business boundaries will be withdrawn. Facey said she expects that Litchfield will also withdraw some articles but he was unavailable for comment this week.

The two substantive articles Moderator Place alluded to are Articles 65 and 71 and concern zoning area regulation changes in the Downtown Business and Highway Business Districts, respectively. These, especially Article 71 which has met with attack from merchants along Route 3A, are

[turn to page 3]

Cohasset Colonial Pharmacy New Mariner Drop Spot

The Cohasset Mariner office, formerly located at 22 Elm Street, has moved back to its main headquarters at 541 Plain Street in Marshfield. A drop off station at Cohasset Colonial Pharmacy has been arranged and any press releases, photos, letters, or information may be left there and will be picked up by Mariner staff.

Box 71 in Cohasset is still our post office box for items to be mailed, however, and for the time being telephone messages can be left for the staff by calling 837-3500 or 837-5625. A Scituate exchange will be available to call into the main office as soon as the telephone company untangles its wires. Look in the Cohasset Mariner for further notification.

Crusher Casey's Route ...From Skulls To Skulls

By Bucky Yardume

For over 10 years he went around the country cracking skulls.

Now he cracks the whip coaching youthful oarsmen in skulls.

The 'He' is Steve Casey of Cedar Lane, one a.k.a. Steve 'Crusher' Casey and to the heavy weight wrestling world what Muhammad Ali is to the heavyweight boxing scene-- the champ.

The Crusher is 69 now, although he doesn't look it. The ferocious ring scowl is replaced by a twinkle.

He was an import so to speak straight from Killarney and Kerry County where as one of eight Casey brothers he matched wrestling grips with his kinsmen. Then Steve brought his talents to America and parlayed them into the title.

Wrestling in those days in Boston and elsewhere was synonymous with Promotor Papa Paul Bowser, who practically kept the sport alive singlehandedly.

Bowser's mat shows were weekly draws at the old Boston Arena. But Papa Paul would move his extravaganzas into the Garden, too. Bowser was a showman of the Barnum school who practiced the most outlandish publicity stunts.

Bowser imported many a grappler and latched onto Casey who was a natural in Boston as a lad straight from Kerry.

In no time Steve became "Crusher" with his patented grip he now says was only "a from the behind grip."

And for 10 years he was, as wrestling announcer Whitey Konfer would bawl

[turn to page 8]

Girls Soccer Gets Approval

The School Committee voted 6 to 1 last week to establish a girls' soccer team at the Junior-Senior High School the fall.

Several high school girls interested in forming a team attended the meeting on behalf of the 46 students who have indicated they would participate.

Spokesman Erin O'Brien said interest had been generated from girls' participation on previously all-boys teams.

It was noted, however, that when students became juniors and seniors, young women couldn't keep up with boys on coed teams. "Girls have a right to form their own team if they can't compete with boys under Chapter 622," said Mary O'Brien, mother

[turn to page 5]